Product	Units Sold	Revenue (₹)	Customer Rating	Complaints
Burger	1,200	1,80,000	4.5	20
Pizza	900	2,25,000	4.7	10
Biryani	1,500	3,00,000	4.2	35
Sandwich	700	70,000	4.0	15
Fried Rice	1,000	1,50,000	4.3	25
Total	5,300	9,25,000	—	105

1. Descriptive Analysis — What Happened?

Findings:

- Biryani has the highest sales volume, with 1,500 units sold.
- Pizza generates the highest revenue per product category at ₹2,25,000? Actually, Biryani generates ₹3,00,000, the highest total revenue.
- Sandwich has the lowest sales volume, with 700 units sold.
- Pizza has the highest customer rating at 4.7/5.
- Biryani has the highest number of complaints, with 35.

Conclusion: Biryani is the strongest product in sales volume and revenue, while Pizza has the highest customer rating. Sandwich has the lowest sales volume.

2. Diagnostic Analysis — Why Did It Happen?

Product	Observation	Possible Reason
Burger	High sales	Popular fast-food option
Pizza	Highest rating	Good quality and customer satisfaction
Biryani	Highest sales and complaints	High demand may create preparation delays
Sandwich	Lowest sales	Lower customer demand or limited promotion
Fried Rice	Moderate sales and complaints	Inconsistent preparation or packaging issues

Conclusion: Product popularity, food quality, preparation time, and customer preferences may explain the differences in performance.

3. Predictive Analysis — What Is Likely to Happen?

Product	Current Units Sold	Predicted Units Next Month
Burger	1,200	1,300
Pizza	900	1,000
Biryani	1,500	1,650
Sandwich	700	750
Fried Rice	1,000	1,050

Findings:

- Biryani is expected to remain the most popular product.
- Burger demand may increase.
- Pizza sales may grow.
- Sandwich demand may increase slightly.
- Fried Rice demand may remain relatively stable.

Conclusion: The company may need to prepare for increased demand, particularly for Biryani and Burger.

4. Prescriptive Analysis — What Should Be Done?

Product	Recommended Action
Burger	Maintain sufficient ingredients and introduce meal combos.
Pizza	Maintain food quality and offer suitable promotions.
Biryani	Increase preparation capacity and investigate customer complaints.
Sandwich	Test new varieties and improve product visibility.
Fried Rice	Investigate complaints and improve preparation consistency.

Conclusion: The company should prioritize high-demand products, investigate customer complaints, improve lower-performing products, and use forecasts to plan inventory.